9. Acceptance on behalf of the American Philosophical Society, by Dr. J. Cheston Morris.

10. Address on the Ethnological Work of Dr. Brinton, by Dr. W J McGee, of Washington, D. C.

The meeting was called to order by provost Charles C. Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania and letters of regret were read from Major J. W. Powell, Miss Alice C. Fletcher, Mr. Frank Hamilton Cushing, The Marquis de Nadaillac and others.

Provost Harrison in his opening address, after eulogizing Dr. Brinton's attainments and services to science, referred to his gift to the University of Pennsylvania, before his death, of his priceless library of books on American languages and suggested that a Professorship of American Archæology be founded at the University to bear the title of the 'Brinton' chair.

The portrait of Dr. Brinton, presented by a number of his friends to the American Philosophical Society, was painted by Thomas Eakins, an artist who had known Dr. Brinton intimately.

The presentation of the portrait was made by the Hon. Samuel W. Pennypacker, Vice-President of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, and accepted by Dr. J. W. Holland, Dean of the Jefferson Medical College, where Dr. Brinton had received his medical education. Professor Albert H. Smyth then delivered the Memorial address which was followed by the presentation to the American Philosophical Society by the Rev. Jesse Y. Burk of a complete set of Dr. Brinton's published works, a gift to the Society from Mrs. Brinton.

Major Powell was unable to be present on account of illness and his place on the program was assigned to Professor F. W. Putnam who urged the foundation of a memorial chair of Anthropology in the University of Pennsylvania in honor of Dr. Brinton, "covering the whole subject in the broad way which Dr. Brinton himself covered it in his lectures to students."

Mr. Culin then presented in behalf of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Pennsylvania a bronze medal of Dr. Brinton cast by Mr. John Flanagan an American artist in Paris, and struck by the Society in commemoration of the 40th anniversary of its existence and the 15th of Dr. Brinton's presidency.

After the acceptance of the medal by Dr. Cheston Morris, on behalf of the American Philosophical Society, Dr. W J McGee delivered an address on the ethnological work of Dr. Brinton.

The meeting was largely attended, the societies participating sending delegates who were present.

A full report of the proceedings will be published in the Memorial Volume of the Philosophical Society which is about to go to press, and an edition of the part relating to the Brinton meeting will be printed and bound separately for distribution to libraries and institutions. This book will contain a bibliography.
